LETTER FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

OCTOBER 2026

This year, we are celebrating an especially significant milestone: Breakthrough graduated our first class of high school seniors, and they are heading to college this fall.

Dear Friends,

At Breakthrough of Greater Philadelphia (BTGP), we believe every student deserves access to the opportunities, resources, and support they need to reach their full potential. Since 1995, Breakthrough has educated more than 1,767 Scholars and prepared more than 552 Teaching Fellows to inspire the next generation of learners.

I am especially proud of what Breakthrough means for our Scholars. Our young people bring tremendous talent, curiosity, ambition, and determination to our community. Our role is to surround them with rigorous academic opportunities, trusted mentors, meaningful learning experiences, and a community that believes deeply in what they can achieve.

This year, we are celebrating an especially significant milestone:

Breakthrough graduated our first class of high school seniors, and they are heading to college this fall. Their achievement represents years of hard work, persistence, and growth—and demonstrates what is possible when Scholars have sustained academic support and a community invested in their success. We could not be prouder to see these young people take this next step, equipped with the skills, confidence, and aspirations they have developed throughout their Breakthrough journey. We're excited to have provided graduating Scholars with a scholarship for their first year of college as well.

Today, Scholars can receive eight consecutive years of free academic enrichment and support, from 5th through 12th grade. Our end-to-end experience begins with High School Ready for 5th through 8th graders, continues with the Summer Capstone program before 9th grade, and culminates in College Bound for 9th through 12th grade Scholars.

This continuum allows us to walk alongside Scholars during some of the most consequential years of their educational journeys. At Breakthrough, Scholars build strong academic foundations, navigate the high school selection process, develop confidence and independence, receive free SAT prep, prepare for college and careers, and envision what is possible for their futures. 70% of Breakthrough Scholars are admitted to their 1st or 2nd choice high school, and 100% plan to attend select high schools. And now, with our first graduating class heading to college, we are seeing the promise of this long-term investment come to life. We're also providing new programming to support Breakthrough Scholar parents along the 5th through 12th grade journey, from college financial planning and scholarship information to social-emotional workshops to understand middle school minds.

Our Teaching Fellow (TF) training program continues to develop the next generation of talented, committed educators. During Summer 2026, our deeply-experienced Deans of Faculty and Instructional Coaches supported 34 Teaching Fellows through an intensive experience that began with a two-week orientation and continued through a 7-week teaching residency. We were thrilled to have National Teacher of the Year Leon Smith kick off TF orientation, thanks to our partnership with Karr Barth Associates in alliance with Equitable Advisors. Mr. Smith's participation set an inspiring tone for a summer centered on the craft, responsibility, and impact of teaching.

Throughout the program, Teaching Fellows received intensive professional development, coaching, mentorship, and real-time feedback designed to help them grow as educators and leaders. 76% percent of our Summer 2026 Teaching Fellows were Fellows of color, surpassing the previous year's record high. Just as importantly, we are encouraged that 90% of this Summer's TFs are seriously considering careers in education after their experience at BTGP.

The impact of the Teaching Fellow experience extends well beyond a single summer. Nationally, Breakthrough reports that three out of four Teaching Fellows pursue careers in education, and more than two-thirds of current teachers who are Breakthrough alumni say they plan to teach for five or more years. These outcomes speak to the power of giving emerging educators the opportunity to teach, receive high-quality coaching, build community with their peers, and experience firsthand the rewards and challenges of the profession. We want our Fellows to leave Breakthrough not only better prepared to teach, but inspired to become the educators and leaders our schools need.

None of this work happens alone. We are deeply grateful to Breakthrough families and to our steadfast community of partners and supporters. Your investment enables us to create innovative programming, deepen the support Scholars and Teaching Fellows receive, and continually respond to what young people need to thrive. This year, our partnership with Sanofi brought new STEM learning opportunities to Breakthrough Scholars through weekly labs with Students 2 Science, helping Scholars explore the possibilities of a STEM education and careers.

Looking ahead, my focus is ensuring that High School Ready, Summer Capstone, and College Bound remain innovative, relevant, enriching, and rigorous. We want every Scholar who enters Breakthrough to leave prepared not simply for the next grade, high school, or college, but with the knowledge, confidence, relationships, and skills to pursue their educational and career goals. Seeing our first class of seniors graduate and begin their college journeys reinforces both the importance of this work and the possibilities ahead for every Scholar coming behind them.

We also want Teaching Fellows to fall in love with teaching and remain in the profession, carrying Breakthrough's leadership lessons, professional development, energy, camaraderie, and optimism into classrooms throughout Philadelphia and beyond.

To sustain Breakthrough's dual-impact, my top priorities continue to be identifying new, sustainable funding sources, strengthening support for the College Bound program, and continue improving the quality of our programming to serve Scholars across their full eight-year journey. I'm equally invested in innovating on Breakthrough's Teaching Fellow experience and training, to ensure our Fellows are well-prepared for the classroom and educator life.

We continue this work from a position of financial strength. For the 5th consecutive year, we ended the 2025–26 fiscal year in a solid financial position, with approximately $1.5 million in revenue received against $1.3 million in expenses. This stability allows us to plan thoughtfully for the future and, most importantly, continue investing in the experiences and opportunities that help Scholars and Teaching Fellows thrive.

Thank you for believing in Breakthrough's students and in the possibilities they are working toward every day. Your partnership makes their journey possible—from a 5th grader discovering new academic strengths to a high school senior crossing the graduation stage and preparing for college—and supports Teaching Fellows as they discover their passion for education and take their first steps toward meaningful careers in teaching.

I invite you to visit our programs, get involved, and continue sharing your support and ideas. Please consider registering for our annual Breakfast of Champions on October 22 at 8:15 a.m. to learn more about Breakthrough's impact.

As you read this year's Impact Report, I hope you see what I see: Scholars with extraordinary potential, supported by a community committed to helping them turn that potential into possibility, and Teaching Fellows developing the skills, confidence, and passion to become the educators our communities need. This fall, our first high school graduates will carry that potential with them onto college campuses, while Teaching Fellows carry their Breakthrough experiences into classrooms and careers in education... together, let's continue cheering them on!

With gratitude,

Michelle Palmer

To sustain Breakthrough's dual-impact, my top priorities continue to be identifying new, sustainable funding sources, strengthening support for the College Bound program, and continue improving the quality of our programming to serve Scholars across their full eight-year journey.

How has Breakthrough helped you reach your goals and/or grow as a person?

Being offered SAT prep (at Breakthrough) was major; I was able to create a goal of a certain score and with the help of our tutor, I was able to hit the score I wanted. Breakthrough also helped me come out of my shell more and more. With all the activities, and given how closely you have to work with your classmates, I learned to step outside of my box, which has continued to serve me well.

My fondest Breakthrough memory...

...was probably the summer of 8th grade. I got closer with several friends and had some great student leaders (Teaching Fellows). About the Teaching Fellows, I felt I could connect with them more and they could connect with me. They felt like friends I could look up to and learn from.

Any advice for Breakthrough's youngest Scholars?

Fully commit to the program. Have faith in your Teaching Fellows and leaders as they are well prepared to put you in a great position going into high school and beyond. My sister is a young Scholar, so I try to give her a heads up too.

"Breakthrough inspires and helps kids reach their full potential academically and socially. The program was very instrumental to my academic success. [It] creates a mindset and an environment to thrive and to think about where you want to be five, ten years later, conversations that you don't have in most Philadelphia public middle schools."

"The first time I ever had the thought that I could actually go to college was at Breakthrough. I could see myself at an institution, going to classes...no-one wants to write a paper in the summer but I could see myself academically as being able to do it. When it came time to apply to college, having this exposure and skills really set me apart."

BEHIND EVERY NUMBER... A FUTURE TEACHER

"I've learned much about establishing strong boundaries and expectations with my students, as well as how to make my lessons more engaging. I've also learned a lot about resilience and learning as I go, as there are often lessons that don't go how I expect. But having the support of my fellow TFs, the (Instructional) Coaches, and the Deans has been amazing."

TAMMY N.
UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA

"I believe that every student deserves access to high-quality, engaging educational opportunities. Breakthrough provides a space where students are empowered to recognize their own potential and excel academically. My favorite part of the program has been seeing the students grow and gain confidence. Over the past few weeks, I've watched them form strong connections with each other and build a truly supportive community."

HOPE P.
NEW YORK UNIVERSITY

"I have a passion for service and believe every student deserves access to a high-quality education, regardless of their circumstances. Breakthrough's mission to support students attending under-resourced schools and expand their educational opportunities aligned with my own values, and I wanted to be part of making a meaningful difference in students' lives."

KALEA A.
UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA

"I joined Breakthrough to become a better teacher. I especially was interested in one-on-one coaching and the ability to see students grow and work closely with them each day. I have learned that teaching can be a lot of fun and the kids make it worth it. Even when I'm struggling with the workload, I always enjoy teaching!"

GRACE V.
TEMPLE UNIVERSITY

"I joined Breakthrough of Greater Philadelphia's Teaching Fellow program because I wanted to spend my summer doing meaningful work. Breakthrough of Greater Philadelphia provides an opportunity where I can show up and positively impact students' lives everyday while teaching histories that are underrepresented in traditional schooling. My favorite part of the summer program has been the privilege to be a part of this learning community. From the students' unique personalities to the supportive network of Teaching Fellows and Deans, I have always felt fulfilled to be doing such hard work with such amazing people."

Summer Teaching Fellow Experience

So what exactly is it like to be a Breakthrough Philly Teaching Fellow?

Before Breakthrough Scholars arrive for the summer, Teaching Fellows move into their dorms scattered across Philadelphia-area colleges and spend two intensive weeks preparing to step into one of the most meaningful roles of the program: lead teacher.

Orientation is designed to give college students the practical skills, confidence, and support they need to take ownership of a classroom from day one. Fellows learn the fundamentals of effective teaching—from teacher presence, lesson planning, pacing, classroom culture and routines to student-centered instruction and understanding the “middle school mentality.” They also dig deeply into their curriculum, plan lessons and design bespoke electives, learn strategies for connecting with young people, and prepare for the routines and responsibilities that shape the Breakthrough community. This past summer, National Teacher of the Year Leon Smith kicked off TF orientation, thanks to our partnership with Karr Barth Associates in alliance with Equitable Advisors. Mr. Smith’s participation set an inspiring tone for a summer centered on the craft, responsibility, and impact of teaching.

What makes the two-week orientation experience especially powerful is that Teaching Fellows don’t simply learn about teaching—they practice it repeatedly before Scholars ever enter the classroom. Through mini-teachbacks and full lesson teachbacks, Fellows rehearse lessons, practice responding to classroom scenarios, record themselves teaching, review the playback, and receive individualized feedback from Instructional Coaches and Deans of Faculty. Fellows also receive more holistic training about mental health and wellness, self-care, and financial planning.

During the second week, that cycle of practice, reflection, coaching, and revision becomes even more intensive, with multiple teachbacks, content meetings, one-on-one coaching, more lesson planning, and preparation of classroom spaces and routines. By the time 5th–8th grade Scholars arrive in week three, Teaching Fellows have already begun transforming from college students interested in education into prepared, supported lead teachers. They are ready to build relationships, create engaging classrooms, and put everything they have practiced into action.

'25/26 PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

The year was jam-packed with meaningful learning opportunities for Breakthrough Scholars and Teaching Fellows alike. Here are some FY '25/26 highlights across our three signature programs: High School Ready, Summer Capstone, and College Bound.

HIGH SCHOOL READY PROGRAM

Students 2 Science

Made possible by annual corporate partner Sanofi, Students 2 Science provided weekly science lab lessons to Breakthrough Scholars. These programs connect scientific concepts to real-world applications while building curiosity, confidence, and critical-thinking skills. Scholars explored a new topic each week through Flowers for the Bees, Dirty Water, Weathering & Erosion, Hoo's for Dinner (Owl Pellets), and Air We Share. From investigating pollination and ecosystems to exploring water and air quality, earth science, and food chains, Scholars had opportunities to observe, experiment, ask questions, and solve problems like scientists. The partnership brought engaging, experiential STEM learning directly into Breakthrough's summer program while helping Scholars see science not simply as a classroom subject, but as something that shapes their everyday lives—and a field filled with possibilities for their futures.

Philadelphia Mayor Cherelle Parker Visits Breakthrough

Scholars also had opportunities to learn from and engage with an inspiring group of speakers and special guests throughout the year of programming. We were especially honored to welcome Philadelphia Mayor Cherelle Parker, who shared her personal journey with our Scholars, challenged them to see the possibilities ahead, and spoke about her vision for the future of Philadelphia—and the important role they can play in shaping that future. Experiences like these give Scholars the opportunity to learn directly from leaders, broaden their sense of what is possible, and begin to see themselves as active participants in the future of their city and communities.

SUMMER CAPSTONE PROGRAM

Breakthrough Scholars Study in Costa Rica

In July 2026, a group of rising 9th grade Scholars participated in a two-week science and research program in Costa Rica, fully funded by Breakthrough of Greater Philadelphia. CBS News' Wakisha Bailey interviewed the Scholars and their families at Philadelphia International Airport upon their departure, and reconnected with them upon their return from Costa Rica. View the CBS News segments here: Bon Voyage and Welcome Home!

Bridges to College Tour

Made possible by annual corporate partner Karr Barth Associates in alliance with Equitable Advisors, the Bridges to College tour took several Breakthrough College Bound Scholars to visit campuses throughout Atlanta. Included on the tour were Morehouse, Spelman, Georgia Tech, Morris Brown, and Clark Atlanta University.

Visit with First Lady Shapiro in Harrisburg

Last June, Breakthrough's College Bound Scholars met with First Lady Lori Shapiro in Harrisburg, PA. They had an amazing day, learned a great deal about our Commonwealth, and appreciated the opportunity to share their ideas and experiences around issues impacting their communities and peers.

Educational Equity Summit

In Fall 2025, Breakthrough and WURD hosted an inaugural Educational Equity Summit on the campus of Germantown Friends School. Goals for the afternoon's panels were to explore pressing issues surrounding educational equity and diversity, and highlight innovative approaches, systemic challenges, and actionable solutions to promote inclusivity in education systems and communities. We sought to foster dialogue among thought leaders, policymakers, educators, and media, and provide everyone with inspiration and a roadmap for action.

Special thanks to panelists Council Member Isaiah Thomas, Dr. James Peterson, Cara McClellan, Ansharaye Hines, Dawn Chavous, Dr. Stephen Brady, and Michelle Palmer.

Immense gratitude also goes to community partners WURD, Center for Black Educator Development, Chavous Consulting, Education Reform Alliance, and GFS.

Tune in to WURD Radio on October 13 and 20 from 5 to 6 p.m. where Breakthrough will host more Education Equity discussions on AI, technology and the new digital divide, and whether new funding translates into greater equity in schools.

WELCOME TO BREAKTHROUGH!

We are thankful to all who serve as advisors, supporters, and champions to help realize Breakthrough's mission. Breakthrough welcomed Caryn Rivers, Enrollment and College Access Manager, to its staff and two Advisory Board members since last year's Impact Report.

CARYN RIVERS

Enrollment and College Access Manager

Caryn serves as Breakthrough's Enrollment and College Access Manager, welcoming new students to the program and guiding high school Scholars through the college process. She brings deep leadership experience across the college access landscape to the role. Caryn is driven by a commitment to educational equity and to helping students find paths to top-choice colleges and meaningful careers.

Caryn earned her undergraduate degree in African American Studies from Harvard University and her graduate degree in Urban Policy Analysis and Management from The New School.

I'm a Breakthrough Believer because...

Breakthrough's commitment to supporting highly-motivated, traditionally underserved students from middle school through college aligns with my own educational journey and professional commitment. Too often, students with every bit of potential are stopped short by systems that weren't built with them in mind. I'm honored to help Scholars and families navigate the path to college and beyond.

Fun Fact

I love telling great stories so much that I compete, and I've won a local Moth StorySLAM! It's a skill that comes in handy when I'm helping Scholars find their own voices for college essays.

As the leader of an advisory team, he develops and implements bespoke investment policy and asset allocation for several complex, multigenerational clients. Additionally, Wes oversees and supports the business development opportunities of the Pennsylvania office in close coordination with the Chief Growth Office.

Prior to Pathstone, Wes was a partner at Veritable, LP. At the start of his career with Veritable, Wes was a key member of one of the firm's largest advisory teams, managing over $3 billion in AUM. Over his tenure, he developed into an investment team leader while collaborating with firm leadership to formalize the business development office.

Wes graduated with honors from The Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania with a BS in Finance. Wes is a CFA® charterholder and a member of CFA Society Philadelphia.

Wes is a longtime resident of Philadelphia, along with his wife and daughter. He enjoys basketball, cycling, golf, and film. Most of all, he loves spending time outdoors with his family, whether it is exploring a new city or bird watching in Cape May. He previously served six years on the board and as treasurer of Breakthrough of Greater Philadelphia.
